

Conclusion

Applicant respectfully submits that the subject application is in condition for Allowance and should be issued as a U.S. patent immediately. The Examiner has not fairly evaluated Applicant's extensive written description, including 33 working examples, and supporting experimental data, nor has he provided any cogent reasons as to why Applicant's invention is not patentable. As shown above, the Examiner has not only misapplied the patent laws and rules of procedure, but has gone even further in creating new patent standards that are inapplicable. Applicant has fully satisfied the legal requirements of Sections 101 and 112 according to established case law and the Examiner has failed to show otherwise.

Respectfully submitted,

Manelli, Denison & Selter, PLLC
